Minutes of the Training Selection Panel Meeting

24 November 1970

Attendees:

[Redacted box]

25X1

1. The Panel determined that the Center did not have any candidates for the National Communications Security Course to be conducted from 18-29 January 1971 at the National Security Agency, Friendship Annex.

? → 2. For the first time, the Registrar, National Cryptologic School, invited the Director, NPIC, to send one student. The course is for operations and communications planning personnel and is intended to permit students to explore the subject of communications security and related phases of operations security in depth. A check of Agency training records revealed that CIA has participated in this course only to a very limited degree. Most of the participants have been from the Office of Communications and a few from the Office of Security. CIA has had no attendees for the last two course runnings, but will have one for the January course. The Panel members felt that this course does not have sufficient relevance to justify Center personnel attendance.

25X1 3. It was announced at the meeting that the DDI had requested the Center to nominate two candidates for the next Midcareer Course. [Redacted] had previously been designated as the Center's candidate. The Panel was unanimous in recommending [Redacted] as the Center's second candidate. It was noted that under the DDI's age limitations the next Midcareer Course would be the last one for which [Redacted] would qualify. This recommendation was forwarded immediately to the Executive Director.

25X1 4. Members of the Panel were asked to review their respective Group or Staff for candidates for the 1971-72 Career Education Awards Program (CEAP). The Program offers one academic year (September - June) of generalized graduate study designed to broaden the outlook and deepen the understanding of careerists identified as possessing the abilities to assume high-level, policy-making and management responsibilities.

5. The CIA has not yet received from the Civil Service Commission an invitation for nominations to the CEA Program. Therefore, the CSC deadline for nominations is not known and no dates for the CIA Training Selection Panel Board meeting or DDI approval have been established. The NPIC Training Selection Panel will meet in early December to select candidates.
